SECTION A: POETRYPRESCRIBED POETRY

Answer any TWO of the following questions.

QUESTION 1: POETRY – ESSAY QUESTION

Read the poem below and then answer the question that follows.

ON THE MOVE – Thom Gunn

'Man, you gotta Go.'

The blue jay scuffling in the bushes follows
Some hidden purpose, and the gust of birds
That spurts across the field, the wheeling swallows,
Have nested in the trees and undergrowth.
Seeking their instinct, or their poise, or both,
One moves with an uncertain violence
Under the dust thrown by a baffled sense
Or the dull thunder of approximate words.

5

On motorcycles, up the road, they come:
Small, black, as flies hanging in heat, the Boys,
Until the distance throws them forth, their hum
Bulges to thunder held by calf and thigh.
In goggles, donned impersonality,
In gleaming jackets trophied with the dust,
They strap in doubt – by hiding it, robust –
And almost hear a meaning in their noise.

10

Exact conclusion of their hardiness
Has no shape yet, but from known whereabouts
They ride, direction where the tires press.
They scare a flight of birds across the field:
Much that is natural, to the will must yield.
Men manufacture both machine and soul,
And use what they imperfectly control
To dare a future from the taken routes.

It is part solution, after all.
One is not necessarily discord
On earth; or damned because, half animal,
One lacks direct instinct, because one wakes
Afloat on movement that divides and breaks.
One joins the movement in a valueless world,
Choosing it, till, both hurler and the hurled,
One moves as well, always toward, toward.

30

A minute holds them, who have come to go: The self-defined, astride the created will They burst away; the towns they travel through Are home for neither bird nor holiness, For birds and saints complete their purposes. At worst, one is in motion; and at best, Reaching no absolute, in which to rest, One is always nearer by not keeping still.	35 40
--	----------------------------------

In 'On the Move', the speaker suggests that humanity's constant search for purpose is never achieved.

By close reference to diction, imagery and tone, critically discuss this statement.

Your response should take the form of a well-constructed essay of 250–300 words (about ONE page).

QUESTION 2: POETRY – CONTEXTUAL QUESTION

Read the poem below and then answer the questions that follow.

LAKE MORNING IN AUTUMN – Douglas Livingstone

Before sunrise the stork was there resting the pillow of his body on stick legs growing from the water.

A flickering gust of pencil-slanted rain swept over the chill autumn morning:
and he, too tired to arrange

his wind-buffed plumage, perched swaying a little neck flattened, ruminative,

beak on chest, contemplative eye
filmy with star vistas and hollow black migratory leagues, strangely, ponderously alone and some weeks

early. The dawn struck and everything, sky, water, bird, reeds was blood and gold. He sighed.

Stretching his wings he clubbed
the air; slowly, regally, so very tired, aiming his beak he carefully climbed inclining to his invisible tunnel of sky,

his feet trailing a long, long time.

THE WILD DOVES AT LOUIS TRICHARDT – William Plomer

Morning is busy with long files Of ants and men, all bearing loads. The sun's gong beats, and sweat runs down. A mason-hornet shapes his hanging house. In a wide flood of flowers	5
Two crested cranes are bowing to their food. From the north today there is ominous news.
Midday, the mad cicada-time. Sizzling from every open valve Of the overheated earth The stridulators din it in – Intensive and continuing praise Of the white-hot zenith, shrilling on Toward a note too high to bear.	10
Oven of afternoon, silence of heat. In shadow, or in shaded rooms, This face is hidden in folded arms, That face is now a sightless mask, Tree-shadow just includes those legs.	15
The people have all lain down, and sleep In attitudes of the sick, the shot, the dead.	20
And now in the grove the wild doves begin, Whose neat silk heads are never still, Bubbling their coolest colloquies. The formulae they liquidly pronounce In secret tents of leaves imply (Clearer than man-made music could) Men being absent, Africa is good.	25

Read the poem below and then answer the questions that follow.

LONDON – William Blake

I wander thro' each charter'd street,
Near where the charter'd Thames does flow.
And mark in every face I meet
Marks of weakness, marks of woe.

In every cry of every Man,
In every Infants cry of fear,
In every voice: in every ban,
The mind-forg'd manacles I hear

How the Chimney-sweeper's cry
Every blackning Church appalls,
And the hapless Soldier's sigh
Runs in blood down Palace walls

But most thro' midnight streets I hear
How the youthful Harlot's curse
Blasts the new-born Infants tear
And blights with plagues the Marriage hearse.

UNSEEN POETRY (COMPULSORY)QUESTION 5: CONTEXTUAL QUESTION

Read the poem below and then answer the questions that follow.

TWO BIRDS – David Farrell

I

Punched out of the sky by a BB pellet
the sparrow I mended as a boy ignorant of Darwin
carted its splint like a veteran drank hugely from a dropper;
began one morning to throb like a valve
and freed, groped up the air beat over beat, accelerating circled once and chopped away cleanly
as a salute.

5

10

II

Fear pistoned the wagtail I found washed down by a thunderstorm banging shocked from brick to brick on the stoep till I scooped it up:
pounding wet in my fist as a plucked out heart.
A live jewel in cotton wool
all afternoon the body strummed in silence except when it hacked wildly at the dropper:
my nearness polished the flat eyes with hate and experience stretched the ready neck as I nursed the wagtail into its death – for knowledge, after all, fitted both of us for nothing else.

20

- 5.1 How does the word, 'Punched' (line 1), contribute to your understanding of what happened to the sparrow? (2)
- 5.2 Explain what the word, 'groped' (line 7), conveys about the sparrow's movement. (2)
- 5.3 Refer to line 17: 'all afternoon the body strummed in silence'.
Explain the appropriateness of the image in the context of the poem. (3)
- 5.4 Refer to lines 20–21: 'and experience stretched ... into its death –'.

QUESTION 6: ANIMAL FARM – ESSAY QUESTION

The animals on Animal Farm are victims of circumstance rather than of their own flaws.

Critically discuss the extent to which you agree with the above statement.

Your response should take the form of a well-constructed essay of 400–450 words (2–2½ pages).

[25]QUESTION 7: ANIMAL FARM – CONTEXTUAL QUESTION

Read the extracts below and then answer the questions that follow.

EXTRACT A

[Napoleon] announced that from now on the Sunday-morning Meetings would come to an end. They were unnecessary, he said, and wasted time.

...

In spite of the shock that Snowball's expulsion had given them, the animals were dismayed by this announcement. Several of them would have protested if they could have found the right arguments. Even Boxer was vaguely troubled. He set his ears back, shook his forelock several times, and tried hard to marshal his thoughts; but in the end he could not think of anything to say. Some of the pigs themselves, however, were more articulate. Four young porkers in the front row uttered shrill squeals of disapproval, and all four of them sprang to their feet and began speaking at once. But suddenly the dogs sitting round Napoleon let out deep, menacing growls, and the pigs fell silent and sat down again. Then the sheep broke out into a tremendous bleating of 'Four legs good, two legs bad!' which went on for nearly a quarter of an hour and put an end to any chance of discussion.

Afterwards Squealer was sent round the farm to explain the new arrangement to the others.

15

'Comrades,' he said, 'I trust that every animal here appreciates the sacrifice that Comrade Napoleon has made in taking this extra labour upon himself. Do not imagine, comrades, that leadership is a pleasure! On the contrary, it is a deep and heavy responsibility. No one believes more firmly than Comrade Napoleon that all animals are equal. He would be only too happy to let you make your decisions for yourselves.

20

But sometimes you might make the wrong decisions, comrades, and then where should we be? Suppose you had decided to follow Snowball, with his moonshine of windmills – Snowball, who, as we now know, was no better than a criminal?'

...

One false step, and our enemies would be upon us. Surely, comrades, you do not want Jones back?'

[Chapter 5]

25

7.1 Refer to line 5: 'Even Boxer was vaguely troubled.'

What does this line imply about the announcement that has just been made by Napoleon?

(3)

7.2 Contrast the mood of this meeting and that of the initial meeting at which old Major had shared his vision for the future.

(3)

7.3 Discuss fully the effect of any ONE of the propaganda techniques used by Squealer in this extract.

(3)

7.4 Refer to line 6: '[Boxer] tried hard to marshal his thoughts'.

With reference to the novel as a whole, comment on how Boxer's difficulty in 'marshal[ling] his thoughts' allows him and, by implication, the other animals to be exploited by the pigs.

(3)

AND

EXTRACT B

But as the animals outside gazed at the scene, it seemed to them that some strange thing was happening. What was it that had altered in the faces of the pigs? Clover's old dim eyes flitted from one face to another. Some of them had five chins, some had four, some had three. But what was it that seemed to be melting and changing? Then, the applause having come to an end, the company took up their cards and continued the game that had been interrupted, and the animals crept silently away.

5

But they had not gone twenty yards when they stopped short. An uproar of voices was coming from the farmhouse. They rushed back and looked through the window again. Yes, a violent quarrel was in progress. There were shoutings, bangings on the table, sharp suspicious glances, furious denials. The source of the trouble appeared to be that Napoleon and Mr Pilkington had each played an ace of spades simultaneously.

10

Twelve voices were shouting in anger, and they were all alike. No question, now, what had happened to the faces of the pigs. The creatures outside looked from pig to man, and from man to pig, and from pig to man again: but already it was impossible to say which was which.

15

[Chapter 10]

- 7.5 Refer to lines 3–4: 'Some of them had five chins, some had four, some had three.'
- What does this description suggest about the pigs' lifestyle at this point in the novel? (3)

PRIDE AND PREJUDICE – Jane Austen

QUESTION 8: PRIDE AND PREJUDICE – ESSAY QUESTION

The characters in Pride and Prejudice are victims of circumstance rather than of their own flaws.

Critically discuss the extent to which you agree with the above statement.

Your response should take the form of a well-constructed essay of 400–450 words (2–2½ pages).

[25]QUESTION 9: PRIDE AND PREJUDICE – CONTEXTUAL QUESTION

Read the extracts below and then answer the questions that follow.

EXTRACT C

'His pride,' said Miss Lucas, 'does not offend me so much as pride often does, because there is an excuse for it. One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself. If I may so express it, he has a right to be proud.'

'That is very true,' replied Elizabeth, 'and I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine.'

'Pride,' observed Mary, who piqued herself upon the solidity of her reflections, 'is a very common failing, I believe. By all that I have ever read, I am convinced that it is very common indeed; that human nature is particularly prone to it, and that there are very few of us who do not cherish a feeling of self-complacency on the score of some quality or the other, real or imaginary. Vanity and pride are different things, though the words are often used synonymously. A person may be proud without being vain. Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us.'

10

[Chapter 5]

- 9.1 What has prompted this discussion of Darcy? (3)
- 9.2 Refer to lines 3–4: 'If I may so express it, he has a right to be proud.'
How is this statement characteristic of Miss Lucas? (3)
- 9.3 Refer to lines 5–6: 'I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine.'
Comment on how this humiliation of Elizabeth influences her later behaviour. (3)

EXTRACT D

In spite of having been at St James's Sir William was so completely awed by the grandeur surrounding him, that he had but just courage enough to make a very low bow, and take his seat without saying a word; and his daughter, frightened almost out of her senses, sat on the edge of her chair, not knowing which way to look. Elizabeth found herself quite equal to the scene, and could observe the three ladies before her composedly. – Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features, which might once have been handsome. Her air was not conciliating, nor was her manner of receiving them such as to make her visitors forget their inferior rank. She was not rendered formidable by silence; but whatever she said was spoken in so authoritative a tone, as marked her self-importance, and brought Mr Wickham immediately to Elizabeth's mind; and from the observation of the day altogether, she believed Lady Catherine to be exactly what he had represented.	5
...
The dinner was exceedingly handsome, and there were all the servants and all the articles of plate which Mr Collins had promised; and, as he had likewise foretold, he took his seat at the bottom of the table, by her ladyship's desire, and looked as if he felt that life could furnish nothing greater. He carved, and ate, and praised with delighted alacrity; and every dish was commended, first by him and then by Sir William, who was now enough recovered to echo whatever his son-in-law said, in a manner which Elizabeth wondered Lady Catherine could bear. But Lady Catherine seemed gratified by their excessive admiration, and gave most gracious smiles, especially when any dish on the table proved a novelty to them.	10

Critically discuss this portrayal of Lady Catherine in the context of Austen's society. (3)
- 9.7 Refer to lines 10–11: 'and brought Mr Wickham immediately to Elizabeth's mind'.
Explain, in the light of later events, why Elizabeth's belief in the validity of Wickham's pronouncements is ironic. (3)
- 9.8 In EXTRACT C, Mary draws a distinction between pride and vanity.
Using EXTRACT D as a starting point, comment on whether the novel makes a distinction between pride and vanity. (4)

Then [Myrtle] flounced over to the dog, kissed it with ecstasy, and swept into the kitchen, implying that a dozen chefs awaited her orders there.

'I've done some nice things out on Long Island,' asserted Mr McKee.

'I'd like to do more work on Long Island, if I could get the entry. All I ask is that they should give me a start.'

5

'Ask Myrtle,' said Tom, breaking into a short shout of laughter as Mrs Wilson entered with a tray. 'She'll give you a letter of introduction, won't you, Myrtle?'

'Do what?' she asked, startled.

'You'll give McKee a letter of introduction to your husband, so he can do some studies of him.' His lips moved silently for a moment as he invented, ' "George B. Wilson at the Gasoline Pump", or something like that.'

10

Catherine leaned close to me and whispered in my ear:

'Neither of them can stand the person they're married to.'

Myrtle pulled her chair close to mine, and suddenly her warm breath poured over me the story of her first meeting with Tom.

15

And all the time something within her was crying for a decision. She wanted her life shaped now, immediately – and the decision must be made by some force – of love, of money, of unquestionable practicality – that was close at hand.

That force took shape in the middle of spring with the arrival of Tom Buchanan. There was a wholesome bulkiness about his person and his position, and Daisy was flattered. Doubtless there was a certain struggle and a certain relief. The letter reached Gatsby while he was still at Oxford.

[Chapter 8]

11.6 Refer to line 1: 'But he knew ... a colossal accident.'

Explain why Gatsby's presence in Daisy's house is a 'colossal accident'. (3)

11.7 Refer to lines 8–9: 'He knew that Daisy was extraordinary'.

Comment on Gatsby's perception of Daisy in the context of the novel as a whole. (3)

11.8 Gatsby and Myrtle have similar aspirations.

DUKE

Valiant Othello, we must straight employ you
Against the general enemy Ottoman.
(To Brabantio) I did not see you. Welcome, gentle signior.
We lacked your counsel and your help tonight.

BRABANTIO

So did I yours. Good your grace, pardon me.
Neither my place nor aught I heard of business
Hath raised me from my bed, nor doth the general care
Take hold on me, for my particular grief
Is of so floodgate and o'erbearing nature
That it engulfs and swallows other sorrows
And yet is still itself.

5

DUKE

Why, what's the matter?

BRABANTIO

My daughter! O, my daughter!

SENATORS

Dead?

BRABANTIO

Ay, to me.

15

She is abused, stolen from me, and corrupted
By spells and medicines bought of mountebanks;
For nature so preposterously to err,
Being not deficient, blind, or lame of sense,
Sans witchcraft could not.

20

DUKE

Whoe'er he be that in this foul proceeding
 Hath thus beguiled your daughter of herself
 And you of her, the bloody book of law
 You shall yourself read in the bitter letter
 After its own sense, yea, though our proper son
 Stood in your action.

BRABANTIO

Humbly I thank your grace.

Here is the man, this Moor, whom now it seems
 Your special mandate for the state affairs
 Hath hither brought.

30

We are very sorry for it.

DUKE

(To Othello) What in your own part can you say to this?

BRABANTIO

OTHELLO

... But there where I have garnered up my heart,
Where either I must live or bear no life,
The fountain from the which my current runs
Or else dries up – to be discarded thence!
Or to keep it as a cistern for foul toads
To knot and gender in! Turn thy complexion there;
Patience, thou young and rose-lipped cherubin,
Ay, there look grim as hell!

5

DESDEMONA

I hope my noble lord esteems me honest.

OTHELLO

O, ay! as summer flies are in the shambles,
That quicken even with blowing. O, thou black weed,
Who art so lovely fair and smell'st so sweet
That the sense aches at thee, would thou hadst ne'er been born!

10

DESDEMONA

Alas, what ignorant sin have I committed?

OTHELLO

Was this fair paper, this most goodly book,
Made to write 'whore' on? What, committed!
Committed! O, thou public commoner!

15

I should make very forges of my cheeks,

That would to cinders burn up modesty,
Did I but speak thy deeds. What committed!

20

Heaven stops the nose at it, and the moon winks;

The bawdy wind, that kisses all it meets,
Is hushed within the hollow mine of earth

And will not hear it. What committed!

Impudent strumpet!

25

DESDEMONA

By heaven, you do me wrong.

OTHELLO

Are you not a strumpet?

DESDEMONA

No, as I am a Christian.

If to preserve this vessel for my lord

From any hated foul unlawful touch,

Be not to be a strumpet, I am none.

30

OTHELLO

What, not a whore?

DESDEMONA

No, as I shall be saved.

OTHELLO

Is't possible?

DESDEMONA

O, heaven forgive us!

35

OTHELLO

I cry you mercy then,
I took you for that cunning whore of Venice
That married with Othello.

EXTRACT I

MRS PUTNAM PARRIS	The psalm! The psalm! She cannot bear to hear the Lord's name! No, God forbid. Mercy, run to the doctor! Tell him what's happened here! (MERCY LEWIS rushes out.)
MRS PUTNAM	Mark it for a sign, mark it!
	REBECCA NURSE, seventy-two, enters. She is white-haired, leaning upon her walking-stick.	5
PUTNAM	(pointing at the whimpering Betty): That is a notorious sign of witchcraft afoot, Goody Nurse, a prodigious sign!
MRS PUTNAM	My mother told me that! When they cannot bear to hear the name of –	10
PARRIS	(trembling): Rebecca, Rebecca, go to her, we're lost. She suddenly cannot bear to hear the Lord's –
	GILES COREY, eighty-three, enters. He is knotted with muscle, canny, inquisitive, and still powerful.
REBECCA	There is hard sickness here, Giles Corey, so please to keep the quiet.	15
GILES	I've not said a word. No one here can testify I've said a word. Is she going to fly again? I hear she flies.
	...
MRS PUTNAM	This is no silly season, Rebecca. My Ruth is bewildered, Rebecca; she cannot eat.	20
REBECCA	Perhaps she is not hungered yet. (To Parris.) I hope you are not decided to go in search of loose spirits, Mr Parris. I've heard promise of that outside.

PARRIS	A wide opinion's running in the parish that the Devil may be among us, and I would satisfy them that they are wrong.	25
PROCTOR	Then let you come out and call them wrong. Did you consult the wardens before you called this minister to look for devils?
PARRIS	He is not coming to look for devils!

EXTRACT J

DANFORTH	(very politely) : Goody Proctor. (She is silent.) I hope you are hearty?	5
ELIZABETH	(as a warning reminder) : I am yet six month before my time.
DANFORTH	Pray be at your ease, we come not for your life. We – (uncertain how to plead, for he is not accustomed to it.) Mr Hale, will you speak with the woman?	10
HALE	Goody Proctor, your husband is marked to hang this morning. Pause.
ELIZABETH	(quietly) : I have heard it.	15
HALE	You know, do you not, that I have no connection with the court? (She seems to doubt it.) I come of my own, Goody Proctor. I would save your husband's life, for if he is taken I count myself his murderer. Do you understand me?
ELIZABETH	What do you want of me?	15
HALE	Goody Proctor, I have gone this three month like our Lord into the wilderness. I have sought a Christian way, for damnation's doubled on a minister who counsels men to lie.

HATHORNE	It is no lie, you cannot speak of lies.
HALE	It is a lie! They are innocent!
DANFORTH	I'll hear no more of that!
HALE	(continuing to Elizabeth) : Let you not mistake your duty as I mistook my own. I came into this village like a bridegroom to his beloved, bearing gifts of high religion; the very crowns of holy law I brought, and what I touched with my bright confidence, it died; and where I turned the eye of my great faith, blood flowed up. Beware, Goody Proctor – cleave to no faith when faith brings blood. It is mistaken law that leads you to sacrifice. Life, woman, life is God's most precious gift; no principle, however glorious, may justify the taking of it. I beg you, woman, prevail upon your husband to confess. Let him give his lie.	20 25
