We see pictures of each other yet we can't talk to each other. Who is this man in the suit? Who decides what television pictures we all see and what we don't see? Who decides what these pictures mean? How can we learn what's really going on in the world?

Look - in this world thousands of people die of starvation every day, yet tons of food are dumped. Millions of people live in shanty towns and are constantly hungry. Luxury and poverty exist side by side. How can we change this?
